The role of the student athlete today is becoming more complex than ever. Drug and alcohol usage and peer pressure are problems that must be dealt with every day in our schools. It is important that our student athletes know what is expected of them. They need to know how to deal with the problems both on the play-

High School Foo

I have a great deal of empathy for Gary Moeller, the new head football coach at the University of Michigan. Like Gary, I am following some great leaders: Terry Rose, John Dean, and Dan Lauer, to mention a few. I want to live up to the standards these men have set for our organization, as I'm sure Gary wants to uphold the standards of Bo. Just as coach Moeller finds himself stepping into a strong, firmly established program, the same

MHSFCA Goals for 1990

President Jim Ahern

can be said for me; and both of us want to improve the fine organizations that we have inherited. These will be the major goals of my presidency of the MHSFCA.

There are two specific goals that I would like to accomplish this year. The first is the expansion of the playoffs. The Michigan High School Athletic Association Representative Council will have met by the time you receive this newsletter and will have made a choice about expansion of the playoffs. Hopefully it will be a positive restructuring decision. If expansion doesn't take place, I will do everything I possibly can to get more teams involved in the playoffs.

The second area that I would like to see the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association become more active in is the area of drug awareness. Under our Drug Awareness Committee, chaired by Chuck Salvano of Lakeshore, many exciting things have been planned, some starting as soon as this summer. This is a very critical area for our young people and our association is going to do everything it can to help them with the problem.

The driving force of all that is done in the association is to protect and improve high school football. It is with these aims in mind that we represent you, the coaches. If you have other goals that you would like to see us tackle, let us know. Help us to help you. Get involved with your association. We are here for you.

One of the best ways to improve your program is to share ideas with other coaches. It's a two way street. You offer something, you learn something. The same thing that happens at relatively expensive clinics can happen with your newsletter.

Over the past years several of Michigan's best coaches have sent materials for the Newsletter. We encourage you to join that group.

MHSFCA Leadership Workshops

skills is the most effective way we can help them deal with the problems in our society today.

In order to address this need the MHSFCA Board of Directors has decided to offer a series of two workshops to develop student leaders who will influence their peers to lead healthy responsible lives. The Leadership Workshops will each be two day programs and will involve students, coaches, sponsors, and administrators. The leaders attending will receive instruction in alcohol/drug awareness, decision-making skills, communications skills, setting goals, coping with peer pressure, peer pressure reversal, and developing a positive self-image. Each subject will be addressed in large group and small group sessions.

The two day workshops were conceived by the Substance Abuse Committee in co-operation with the workshop staff of Mike Marek, Greg Harden, Tim Fagan and Al Dicken.

It is our hope that the leaders attending either of the workshops will implement their newly developed skills by conducting leadership workshops in their own schools and conferences. The MHSFCA feels our future lies in the hands of our youth, and the more positive experiences we can contribute to their lives, the more positive and constructive all our futures will be.

The workshops will be held at:

1. The University of Michigan on Thursday, June 28 and Friday, June 29. The cost of this workshop will be $45 per adult and $10 per student athlete.

2. Michigan State University on Friday, July 27 and Saturday, July 28. The cost of this workshop will be $45 for each coach and $45 for each athlete. The workshop fee will include registration, room and board at MSU's Holden Hall, and All Star Game tickets.

Another First in Football

9th MHSFCA Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony

Tom Fagan, Past President - Hall of Fame Chair

It is always a joy to be a part of the Michigan High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame Banquet. Crisler Arena, the site of the banquet, is always filled with smiling faces and proud supporters of high school football.

It was quite evident that the guests and families, numbering close to 700, were overjoyed with the opportunity to recognize the pride of their community and witness their coach being inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Probably another first in football was the introduction of the main speaker, MSU's head football coach George Perles, by Gary Moeller, head coach of The University of Michigan. The two biggest names in Michigan football proved that when it comes to honoring Michigan's finest, rivalries are put aside. We are indebted to both men for helping to make our banquet a great success, and adding to our tradition of outstanding, first name speakers.

The main attractions, the inductees, were modest, articulate and entertaining as they accepted their awards and recognized their families, fellow coaches, and friends, who they credited for their success. The only word one inductee could think of to describe the banquet was, "fantastic." Many stated that it was not only the highlight of their coaching career, but of their entire life.

Our association is proud to host the banquet, as evidenced by the many members of our association who gave freely of their time and talents to make the banquet possible. Their commitment has made this one of our association's main functions each year, and as one inductee stated, "For one night, this is the greatest show on earth." We're already anxiously looking forward to next year's banquet.

New Camp Funding Regulations

MHSAA

After more than two years of study and discussion and a review at all ten 1989 Update Meetings, a 180-degree change is occurring in MHSAA regulations and interpretations regarding the funding of students' participation in athletic camps out-of-season.

At its fall meeting in Detroit the MHSAA Representative Council placed schools in control of the funds used to send students to out-of-season camps. The following changes have been made and are effective immediately:

1. Interpretation #83 of amateur regulations has been revised to read:

"A camp may not reduce or waive fees for any individual or team. Full or partial scholarships to athletic camps may be accepted by students without violating the amateur regulation, provided the funds are paid by:

"(1) the student's parents, grandparents or siblings; or

"(2) the school district, not with general funds, but with funds generated through school approved fund raising activities of booster clubs, school teams, student groups, and community, civic or service groups and are not provided to students on the basis of athletic ability or potential."

2. Item 1(C) of regulation II, Section 11 (G) has been revised to read (bold type is new):

"No payment with school district funds of entry fees for teams or individuals to camps or competition unless those funds were generated through school approved activities of booster clubs, school teams, student groups, and community, civic, or service groups and are not provided to students on the basis of athletic ability or potential."

3. A maximum limit on the amount of money that may be paid with approved school funds on behalf of any one student to participate in out-of-season camps, clinics or competition has been established: $200 per sport — per year (September through August).

This changes previous regulations which have prohibited any funds from any school account to be used for the payment of entry fees for teams or individuals to camps or competition out-of-season.

History of the MHSFCA Hall of Fame

The Michigan High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame opened officially on April 16, 1982. The Hall of Fame is located in the lobby of the University of Michigan's indoor practice facility.

The Hall of Fame became a reality because of the planning and effort of the committee headed by Ron Holland, Chuck

221 coaches have been inducted into the Hall of Fame.

The Induction Banquet is held in conjunction with the University of Michigan's and obtaining outstanding speakers. Others, like Dick Kishpaugh, Chuck Ritter, and Jack Carlson help maintain current records and keep the Hall of Fame up to date.

The Michigan High School Football Coaches Association is very proud of the Hall of Fame as it was one of the primary purposes for establishing the Association.

High Schools Test Athletes for Drugs

High Schools in Illinois and Alaska have begun testing student-athletes to detect the use of narcotics and steroids.

Homewood-Flossmoor High School, 30 miles south of Chicago, ILL., began testing of student-athletes last month [February 1990], Alaska's Ketchikan High School has instituted the "Rapid Eye Test" (RET) as part of its testing program, and the Fairbanks Public School District began to test the legality of its [drug use testing] practice.

Superintendent Edward J. Rachford told Athletic Director, that the Homewood-Flossmoor Board of Education adopted its policy in September, following a request from the football coach to test his players for substance abuse. He said the policy is based on a procedure used by Tippecanoe, Indiana's Public School District, which has the support of a 1989 ruling by the Federal Court of Appeals.

"There have been incidents," Rachford said, "The coach talked about his frustration with the (football program), and we have reasons to believe his suspicions."

Before the plan was implemented this year, Rachford said the student government conducted a survey of the school's 2,000 students. He said the project received 1,500 responses, with more than 1,100 endorsing random testing. The local Parent-Teacher Association reported that 86 percent of its membership supported testing, based on 200 responses from its own survey.

Rachford said 15 student-athletes will be selected each week, based on a weekly drawing of names. They will submit urine samples for testing 10 common drugs, including marijuana, amphetamines, barbiturates, cocaine and alcohol. Although there is no evidence of steroid use among the team members, two of the 15 students will be randomly selected for a separate test to determine use.

When chemical dependency is detected, the student-athlete must enter a treatment program and accept a suspension from team play during counseling. The player must then be tested before he can return to the team.

If a player refuses treatment or substance abuse is detected during retesting, the student-athlete can be suspended from team play for periods of two weeks to 12 months. There is no academic penalty.

Each drug urinalysis costs between $20 and $25, Rachford said. Testing for alcohol carries another $15 charge; and the price for cause athletic and non-athletic teams must travel Alaska's great distances for competitions. An away basketball game is, in effect, a three day trip. Consequently, the liability risk increases.

"When you take them overnight, you're responsible for them for 24 hours, and you want to make sure they're in good shape," he said.

Student-athletes are required to take the RET at the beginning of their individual seasons and then randomly — two or three times — as the season progresses. The test is simple: in the school nurse's office, the student's eyes are checked for their ability to react to light and track a slow moving object. If the player fails, then a urinalysis is required and the student is referred to a physician to determine the cause, which can be attributed to a number of physical conditions, as well as external detecting steroid use is approximately $100.

Surprisingly, though, the program will not be a financial burden to the Homewood-Flossmoor school district, he told AD. An anonymous donor has offered $25,000 to underwrite the program for one year, and $1 from every $3 ticket for home basketball and football games has been earmarked for drug test expenses.

Two other Chicago area schools are conducting random testing on their entire student body population: Willow Brook and Addison Trail. A third high school, Mohamed-Seymore, in southern Illinois, also is testing its entire student population.

At Ketchikan High School approximately 30 percent of the 700 students participate in varsity sports, band, drama and other programs, according to Assistant Principal Don Pennington. The RET program is a prerequisite to all extra-curricular activities.

Pennington, who also administers the test, told Athletic Director that the program is necessary, be-factors.

Pennington said students are not penalized academically, if chemical dependency is detected. Nor is a police report made. But the student is banned from team competition for the season.

Ketchikan's RET project was inaugurated in 1988, Pennington said. Nearby Sitka High School instituted the policy last fall.

He said the testing program has community support. Ketchikan has 12,000 residents; Sitka is smaller.

Administrators like Rachford and Pennington, though, remain philosophical about the issue.

"I never dreamed of doing it," Rachford said. "(But) it's a matter of conditioning, and we have to start telling students what they need to expect from others, because we are preparing them for life."

Athletes and drugs: What is the coach's role?

You Can Do Something about This Problem

As a coach, you can be successful because you have a special relationship with students and athletes. Most coaches underestimate the influence they have on the young men and women who play for them. As you know you are an authority figure to them. They look up to you because you occupy a leadership role at a very significant period in their lives.
