Each year that Lansing has hosted, our attendance has grown significantly with in state and out of state football coaches and staffs. Our 47th clinic promises to be even bigger and better this year.

Our clinic committee strives to bring the best speakers from our state and country to share the latest trends and information about high school and youth football. Equally important we bring in expert speakers to share information about the safety of our game and how you as a coach can promote and keep our game safe.

47th Annual Winner's Circle Clinic

This year, we have adjusted/lowered our staff registration rate to make it more affordable and easier to registrar. Please visit our website at www.mhsfca.com and take advantage of this rate and get as many of your coaches involved, including your youth staffs. I strongly encourage you to consider bringing your whole staff including your youth coaches to this clinic. This is a great opportunity for all head coaches to bring your staff together and hold your own mini meetings building the foundation of your program. More importantly you can build comradery with your group and meet hundreds of other colleagues doing the same. Lansing is a great environment and this clinic is top notch with information for all.

8 Man Football? Get ready because our clinic will be more packed this year with information than any year we have ever had!

Our sessions and breakouts are always packed with information that can help your game. We include speakers that discuss offense, defense, special teams, in season and out of season training, safety, and much more. Our clinic staff ensures that every facet of the game is covered at our clinic.

Major highlights about this years clinic include:

- 3 sessions of live/interactive demonstration of football drills in Exhibit A that includes Rogers equipment, Active high school head coaches and players in full Addix gear.
- New lower/affordable staff rates

- Awards Banquet featuring honored guests and recipients
- In state and out of state College recruiting coaches
- Expanded Saturday format for all levels of coaches
- "MHSFCA Coaches" All State Team and Dream Team recognition banquet
- Huge number of vendors for all your team needs

MHSFCA What's happening?

On the front burner:

1. All State Teams: Last season the MHSFCA selected its first All State Teams. We will do that again this, 2018 season. The process, however, has been changed to make it more objective and reflect an increased knowledge of the players considered. How? Committees of volunteers from each of the eight 11-player and two 8-player divisions have been formed from the ranks of coaches in each of those divisions. The committees of between five and seven coaches have been tasked with "watching/keeping track of" top performers from teams in their (expected) divisions. As happened last year, nominees will be submitted by head coach members of the MHSFCA. The committees - in each division - will vote on those nominations using the information from the nomination forms and their own observations over the course of the season to make their decisions.

2. Dream Team: The MHSFCA has been asked and has agreed to be the organization that will choose the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame Dream Team for the State of Michigan. The selection will happen during the State Finals for 11-man football at Ford Field. MHSFCA Board members with assistance from the "Division Committees" that will have previously selected All State Teams in each of the 11-man and 8-man divisions will select the team.

3. Playoffs: Playoff Proposal: The "Strength of Schedule" playoff proposal that was very narrowly defeated last Spring by the Representative Council of the Michigan High School Athletic Association is under further study and conversation this fall, which includes multiple survey questions at the fall MHSAA Update meetings. This data and information will be used by both the MHSAA and MHSFCA in determining the next steps for possible reconsideration by the Council.

Longer Range Planning: Combines/Recruiting

*Premise: College recruiting should include the college coach, the high school coach, the prospect and the prospect's parents. Every high school player who aspires to play at the next level should have an opportunity to "get a look."

How can we strengthen the relationship between high school and college coaches and prospects and their parents?

The MHSFCA has, for many years, conducted Recruiting Nights (see this year's schedule in this newsletter), which give college coaches an opportunity to talk with high school coaches about their prospects and to talk with the prospects and their parents.

We have begun to explore with the MHSAA and the NCAA the possibility of producing a series of four or five "seminars/combines" in different geographical regions of the state. Thinking, at this point, is that these events would:

- Occur on Sunday's in April and May.
- Be hosted at D2, D3 and/or NAIA schools
- Include a "seminar", where admissions and financial information would be presented by college officers in those areas.
- Include physical testing and drills determined by college coaches and conducted by high school coach members of the MHSFCA. *The 4-man off-season rule would need to be waved to allow this.
- Culminate in an electronic booklet containing the data derived and distributed to all of our college partners.

2018 All Star Game Summary

By Jim Sparks, All Star Game Chair

June 23, 2018: Saginaw Valley State University

This year's edition of the All Star game was one for the books. With two rosters filled with 35 of the finest players from around the state the fans were treated to a hard fought game that wasn't settled in a normal regulation game.

For the first time in the 36 year history of the game overtime was necessary to crown a winner.

Early in the game the East squad was imposing its will on the ground possessing the ball for pretty much the entire first quarter and jumped out to a 7-0 lead. The West squad answered back with a quick strike and when the team headed to the locker room at halftime the East led by 8 points. The second half featured some tough physical play that found the West in the endzone to pull within 2 points late. The stage was set for a dramatic finish and after the West converted on a 2 pt conversion the stage was set for an epic finish.

The East added to the drama with a tremendous kick return deep into the West territory. With 3 seconds left the East attempted a FG to win but it was blocked and as the clock expired the West was heading downfield with the ball to score and end the game. The East managed to tackle the ball carrier and send the game into OT. In OT the East kicked a FG to take a 3 point lead. On the West's possession they scored a TD to end the game and end the East side's 3 year win streak.

The game was just the culmination of a tremendous week of working with outstanding people. It was a joy to work with the coaching staffs from both sides and watch them work. It is nothing short of miraculous to watch these coaches develop relationships with the players and create a true team atmosphere in such a short period of time. A special show of gratitude must be paid to the staff of SVSU. We are blessed to have Head Coach Jim Collins and Meaghan Markey of the convention center working with us to make sure our game is not only possible but a first class operation that we can all be proud of. To our partner in the game Jeff Corrión and the Dzone it was a pleasure having you on board and we look to working with you in the future. Finally I would like to personally thank MHSFCA members Drake Wilkins and Andre Harlan for working with UAW Ford who generously supported our game as a presenting sponsor.

With the 2018 All Star Game in the books it is time for us all to enjoy our summers, get ready for our seasons in the fall, and ultimately look forward to the 2019 All Star Game which will once again be hosted at SVSU.

Key HS Football Rule Differences from NCAA/NFL Rules

- Most HS games are officiated by five officials: referee (white hat), umpire (behind the defensive front 7), head linesman (sideline with chains), line judge (sideline on press box side) and back judge (deep behind defense). In 2017, all Semifinal and Final games will be worked by 7 officials, adding a side judge and field judge. Some regular season games will also use 7 officials.
- Play clock gives the offense 25 second to snap the ball from the referee's ready for play whistle; this is kept by the back judge and he will visually swing his arm to count down the last five seconds.
- There is no such thing as a "tackle box" under HS rules. A QB attempting to throw the ball away must do so with an eligible receiver in the general area. Just because the QB is out of the pocket and the ball reaches the line of scrimmage does not eliminate the QB from being flagged for intentional grounding.
- There is no such thing as an "uncatchable" ball under HS rules in light of pass interference. If there is illegal contact, whether or not the ball was catchable, it is a foul. For pass interference, there must be contact for a foul to occur; face-guarding with no contact is no longer a foul.
- On extra point plays, if the defense gains possession, the try is over. The defense cannot return the ball for 2 points. Also, if the holder is to throw and flip the ball to another player on an extra point play, he must rise so that his knee is off the ground.
- On a free kick (kick off), the kicking team may not gain possession on a "pooch" kick off where the ball is popped up directly into the air and first touched/caught in the air by a member of the kicking team. For the kicking team to recover the ball, it must first be touched by K or must first touch the ground (and travel 10 yards) to be legally recovered by K. An onside one-bounce "pop-up" kick that is driven directly into the ground and bounds high into the air is also illegal.
- The only fouls that result in automatic first downs are as follows: roughing the passer, roughing the kicker, roughing the snapper and roughing the holder. IN GENERAL, PERSONAL FOULS DO NOT RESULT IN AUTOMATIC FIRST DOWNS UNDER HS RULES! Remember that defensive pass interference does not result in an automatic first down....only a 15 yard (or half the distance) penalty.
- Punts and field goal attempts are treated the same way under HS rules....if a long field goal attempt comes up short and goes out of bounds at the 10 yard line, the defense gets possession of the ball, 1st and 10 at the 10 yard line.
- Under HS rules, whenever a kick (kickoff, punt or FG) breaks the plane of the goal line, the ball is dead immediately. No kick of any kind can be returned once the ball breaks the plane of the goal line.
- Like NFL and NCAA rules, the HS game has a "horse collar" foul (15 yard penalty). The runner must be pulled down backwards or to one side for there to be a foul.

- For a completed catch, one foot must be inbounds by a player who is in firm control of the ball. The one foot must physically come down in bounds.....there is no "force out" rule where the officials can award a catch if they believed the receiver would have come down inbounds if they had not been forced out of bounds.
- Know that HS football has a targeting rule. Any player guilty of a targeting foul can also be ejected if the act is judged to be flagrant. Targeting under HS rules does not require an automatic ejection; officials determine whether or not the act was flagrant.

Overtime Procedures:

- Following regulation, a 3:00 minute intermission will take place.
- Each team gets 1 timeout per OT....no carry-over from the 2nd half or previous OT periods.
- Once the 3:00 expires, the coin toss is conducted at midfield. The winner of the toss has three options: offense first, defense first, or end of the field. The loser of the toss has the remaining options.
- To start each OT, the offensive team will ALWAYS start out first and goal to go. The starting point will be the 10 yard line unless moved from a penalty on the previous play in regulation or earlier OT period. If the ball has been moved by penalty, it is still first and GOAL TO GO.
- If the defense gains possession at any time, the ball becomes dead immediately. The defense may not return the ball for a score.
- There will be only 1 coin toss. If additional OT periods are needed, then the loser of the coin toss to start OT will have the three options for all even OT periods (2nd OT, 4th OT, etc).
- If additional OT periods are needed, there is a 2 minute intermission between those periods in which the options are given to the appropriate teams.
- No try for point will be attempted if the winner of the game has been determined.
- A team can get a first down via an automatic first down foul by the defense (roughing fouls, for example).
- At no time is the offense required to go for 2 points.....different than the NCAA rule.

35-Point Running Clock Rule:

- If one team is ahead by 35 points or more (35 during the second half, the clock will run continuously except:
  - 1) During a timeout .
  - 2) During an injury.
  - 3) To administer a penalty.
  - 4) After a score.
- If during the second half the point differential is reduced to less than 35 points, we revert back to normal timing procedures.

50+-Point Running Clock Rule:

- If one team is ahead by 50 points or more during the second half, the clock will run continuously except during an injury timeout. If the point differential is reduced under 50, timing reverts back to the timing rules when the lead is 35-49 points.

MHSFCA Recruiting Nights

The MHSFCA College Recruiting Nights can help your athletes, their parents and college recruiters find a match that fits. Recruiting Nights give you the opportunity to get to know one another - in a relaxed atmosphere - minus the inherent in the school day.

MHSFCA College Recruiting Nights provide opportunities for you to network with college coaches and to open opportunities for your student-athletes to continue their education and athletic career. Some of the opportunities you uncover at the Recruiting Night will be programs at schools that neither you nor your athlete had previously considered. We invite you and/or a member of your coaching staff to attend one or more of our Recruiting Nights in locations across the state. The agenda will start with Coaches session (5:30-6:30) during which you will have access to college coaches from Michigan and around the mid-west. Host high schools will provide a table for you to meet with and exchange materials and information with college coaches. *Bring copies of player profiles, transcripts and Hudl/video/links with you!

Your prospects and their parents are encouraged to attend at (6:30-7:30)! Following your block with the college coaches, your athletes, their parents and you will have time to meet with the college recruiters.

There is no charge for you or your athletes to attend the Recruiting Night events. This is a benefit of your membership in the MHSFCA. If you are not a current member, please complete the online membership form at MHSFCA.com.

To help us plan facilities, please contact Marcus Dukes to let him know which Recruiting Night/s you plan to attend and give us a rough estimate of how many of your prospects you will ask to attend:

Florida Research Affirms PLP Principles

courtesy of practicelikepros.com

Findings published this month by University of Florida Health researchers in the Annals of Biomedical Engineering align with core principles of Practice Like Pros regarding practice-field contact. Here's the report from UF Health:

Shortening the time spent on the highest-risk football drills could reduce the equivalent of nearly a year's worth of head impacts over the course of a typical player's career, University of Florida Health researchers have found.

Using helmet-mounted sensors, the researchers recorded more than 32,000 impacts during Gator football practices and scrimmages in 2016 and 2017. Researchers estimated that shortening by a total of 15 minutes the time spent on the higher-risk drills could help players — especially linemen — avoid about 1,000 head impacts during their four-year college careers. The majority of these avoided impacts, about 80 percent, were concentrated within three drills identified as having among the highest impact rates, said James R. Clugston, M.D., UF Associate Professor of Medicine and a UF Athletic Association team physician. The findings were published recently in the Annals of Biomedical Engineering journal.

The research team, which also included UF Health neurology, neuropsychology and physiology experts, wanted to know if certain football drills had higher rates of head impacts.

"We thought we could design a better, safer football practice with minor adjustments instead of major changes such as converting an entire full-contact practice to a non-contact practice," Clugston said.

To establish their findings, players' helmets were fitted with six spring-mounted accelerometers to measure head impacts. Research assistants helped to log all of the players' specific drills during the 2016 and 2017 training camps and practices.

Linemen had the highest impact rates during the study, which included spring, August training camp and regular-season practices. The researchers concluded that minor adjustments to the time spent on drills with high impact rates or live scrimmages would reduce the number of head impacts by almost 1,000 for linemen and 300 for other positions during their college careers.

Clugston theorized that once a coach knows which drills were the highest risk, substituting time spent on those with lower-risk drills could reduce the exposure. The study found three drills to be especially high-risk: "team run," a period of scripted running plays from scrimmage; "move the field," a scenario that spots the ball at different points on the field; and "team," a series of full-contact, scripted offensive plays. All three are 11-on-11 drills.

Reducing the time spent on those three drills by as few as three or four minutes per practice could significantly reduce head impacts, the researchers concluded. Overall, a different practice routine involving those three drills could reduce the equivalent of nearly a year's worth of head impacts over the course of a typical player's career, Clugston said.

"Realistically, most coaches are going to keep practices at the same length of time," he said. "This gives them guidance to hopefully pick less-dangerous drills or at least spread out the highest-risk drills to decrease 'impact density,' which has recently been described as important in concussion risk."

While there are differences in the way college teams conduct practices compared with high school and youth football teams, Clugston said the findings also have potential use for younger athletes.

"It does show that you can look at the drills a team performs and figure out which ones are high-risk. It's a way of looking at which drills are the worst for head impacts and then designing practices that decrease time spent in these drills," he said.
